Committee Report (Substituted)

DIGEST AND PURPOSE

Since 1991, the Texas Department of Protective and Regulatory Services (PRS) has been charged with regulating out-of-home child care services. In 1996, the Sunset Advisory Commission reviewed PRS, and in 1997, the Texas Legislature reenacted its functions with some modifications and amendments in Senate Bill 359. During the same session, the licensing provisions of PRS were updated in Senate Bill 1539. To ensure the passage of the licensing updates, the provisions of the licensing bill were amended to the Sunset bill. Also that session, H.B. 155 addressed services provided in a caretaker's home for the care of one to three children and created a new category of child care known as Listed Family Homes. When all three bills passed amending the same sections of code and addressing the same provisions, they created duplicate and conflicting language. In order to give effect to all three pieces of legislation passed in the 75th Session, the duplicate provisions need to be eliminated and other sections require clarification. H.B. 1178 eliminates duplicate sections and clarifies the remaining provisions of child care licensing law to be consistent with the three bills previously enacted.
