Committee Report (Substituted)

AUTHOR'S/SPONSOR'S STATEMENT OF INTENT

Genetic services are key to the identification and treatment of a variety of disorders and are particularly important in prenatal counseling.

C.S.S.B. 1329, based on recommendations from the Interagency Council for Genetic Services created in 1987 to study and promote the use of genetic services in Texas, creates a task force to study best practices for educating medical students and local health care providers on genetic issues and to provide for their participation in genetic services clinics; creates a license for genetic counselors; and calls for recruitment strategies and educational programs to attract diversity in genetic counseling programs and train providers in cultural competency. C.S.S.B. 1329 also requires prompt payment provisions in the Children's Health Insurance Program and Medicaid contracts for appropriate claims by clinical geneticists.
