AUTHOR'S/SPONSOR'S STATEMENT OF INTENT

Under the current law, judicial salaries are as follows: $113,000 for the supreme court and court of criminal appeals; $107,000 for appellate courts (95 percent of high courts) and $101,000 for district courts (90 percent of high courts). This bill increases those salaries to $150,000 for the supreme court and court of criminal appeals (120 percent of district courts), $137,500 for courts of appeals (110 percent of district courts) and $125,000 for district courts.

These raises will be funded through an additional filing fee in the civil courts of $37 per case and $4 for criminal cases.

The purpose of the increase is to provide adequate raises to all judges as well as to equalize the salaries of all state judges across Texas. Counties are permitted to pay a county supplement, but that supplement is capped at an amount so that a judge makes $5,000 less than a judge on the next highest bench (e.g., a district judge makes $5,000 less than an appellate judge).

The bill also requires data collection on reasons for judges resigning or not seeking re-election. The State Bar Texas is also to compile data on compensation of attorneys for the purpose of comparison with the judiciary.

With respect to elected class retirement, the bill continues to link legislative retirement to the salary of a district judge. Prosecutors retirement benefits also remain linked to the salary of a district judge (which is the same as the salary of a district attorney).

Constitutional county court at law judges who spend 40 percent or more time on judicial functions get a $5,000 increase to their state supplement. The current state supplement is $10,000, so this raises it to $15,000.

RULEMAKING AUTHORITY

This bill does not expressly grant any additional rulemaking authority to a state officer, institution, or agency.
