Committee Report (Substituted)

AUTHOR'S / SPONSOR'S STATEMENT OF INTENT

When private entities enter into agreements, referred to as "comprehensive development agreements" (CDAs), with toll road authorities for the construction of toll roads, the private entity is authorized to agree to pay a concession payment to the toll project entity as an incentive to accept the private entity's bid for the project.

While initially beneficial for the region receiving a concession payment, the payment ultimately costs drivers using the toll road because the money spent for the concession payment will be recouped by the private entity through implementation of higher tolls and the need to enter into longer term contracts.

C.S.S.B. 1353 amends current law relating to contract provisions in comprehensive development agreements.
