Committee Report (Substituted)

AUTHOR'S / SPONSOR'S STATEMENT OF INTENT

Concerned local public health officials reported in 2018 that obesity occurs at higher rates in border communities than in non-border communities. In 2015, for example, the obesity burden in border counties was at 35.1 percent, compared to 31.9 percent in non-border counties. The border county obesity prevalence rate of 35.1 percent can be compared to the top five states in the nation. Public health officials caution that the state should undertake some steps in addressing the obesity prevalence in border communities since it leads to increased morbidity and mortality, cardiovascular diseases, chronic diseases of childhood, asthma, and some forms of cancer.

The prevalence of diabetes along the border continues to increase in alarming rates. In 2015, for example, the diabetes burden in border counties was at 13.9 percent prevalence compared to 11.2 percent in non-border counties. Local health officials contend that it is more cost-effective to address preventable chronic diseases early to avoid early death, morbidity, and disability secondary to chronic diseases.

In order to address these concerns, S.B. 1313 directs the Department of State Health Services (DSHS) to develop and implement a school-based demonstration program, focusing on childhood obesity, as well as a chronic disease prevention demonstration program for adults. It also provides for DSHS to work with the appropriate medical and health education (public and higher) experts, as well as with state agencies. S.B. 1313 also directs DSHS to share strategies, best practices, and recommendations that DSHS determines are successful in addressing childhood obesity and chronic disease prevention with appropriate entities in each respective county. (Original Author's/Sponsor's Statement of Intent)

C.S.S.B. 1313 amends current law relating to demonstration programs for childhood obesity and chronic disease prevention in certain border counties.
